3.1.3. is appropriate only for persons who are capable of assuming the risk of loss exceeding their margin deposit, particularly when trading on margin.

3.2. The customer further acknowledges, understands, and accepts that:

3.2.1. due to the typically low margin requirements in Margin Trades, price fluctuations in the underlying assets can result in substantial losses, which may greatly exceed both the customer's initial investment and margin deposit;

Specifically, limit orders to buy and stop orders to sell must be set below the current market price, whereas limit orders to sell and stop orders to buy must be positioned above the current market price. Should the bid price for sell orders or the ask price for buy orders be reached, the order will be executed at the best price available in the market. It is important to note that the execution of limit and stop orders, consistent with PXBT's Best Execution Policy (BEP), is not guaranteed at the specified price or volume, unless explicitly confirmed by the Company for a particular order.

4.4. Regarding any transaction or contract, the Company will act as Principal unless explicitly agreed upon to act as Agent for the customer. The customer, unless otherwise specified in writing, shall enter into contracts with the Company as Principal.

4.5. If the customer acts as an Agent, whether or not the Principal is identified to the Company, the Company is not obligated to accept the Principal as a customer. Therefore, the Company may treat the customer as Principal concerning the contract.

4.6. When the customer enters into a Contract of Order (CO) with the Company, the Company will serve as the counterparty. The Company will secure a contract with a Counterparty that mirrors the contract between the Company and the customer in all respects. The Counterparty will subsequently enter into a contract on the relevant exchange, unless Market Rules require the Counterparty to act as the Company's Agent, in which case the Company will execute a contract on the exchange itself. The customer is contracting directly with the Company and has no right of recourse against the Company's Counterparties or any contractual rights between the Company and its Counterparties.

4.7. The Company will not provide any advice, information, or recommendations to the customer, as it is not responsible for the profitability of such advice, information, or recommendation. The customer acknowledges, understands, and agrees that:

- i. All transactions in exchange-traded investments and many Contracts are subject to, and conducted in accordance with, the Market Rules;
- ii. Market Rules often include extensive powers for use in emergencies or other undesirable circumstances;

- iv. The Company will not be liable for any loss suffered by the Customer due to the acts or omissions of any exchange or clearing house, or any action reasonably taken by the Company in response to such acts or omissions, unless the Company has exercised gross negligence.

4.8. Where the Company acts as Agent for the customer in any transaction, the responsibility for delivery or payment by the other party involved falls entirely upon the customer's risk.

4.9. The obligation of the Company to deliver investments to the customer, or to account to the customer or any other designated individual on the customer's behalf for proceeds from the sale of investments, is conditional upon the Company's receipt of deliverable documents or sale proceeds from the other parties involved in the transaction.

4.10. The Company may, at its discretion, either partially or entirely, temporarily or permanently revoke or withdraw any account facilities provided to the customer under circumstances including, but not limited to:

4.10.1. The Company shall notify the customer of any such withdrawal and the reasons for it, if possible, prior to the withdrawal. If prior notification is not feasible, the Company shall inform the customer immediately thereafter, unless such disclosure would compromise objectively justified security reasons.

4.11. The Company reserves the right to impose an additional commission of up to 4.5% on withdrawals if there is insufficient trading activity between the customer's last deposit and the withdrawal request. The specific percentage of the commission will be determined as below based on the number of months with insufficient trading activity since the last deposit and withdrawal request:

Activity	Percentage
1 month to 3 months	2%
3 months to 6 months	3%
More than 6 months	4.5%

4.12. The Company shall not provide any advice to the Customer regarding tax issues associated with any Services. The Customer is advised to seek independent advice from a financial advisor, auditor, or legal counsel to understand the tax implications of the respective Services.

4.13. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Company, in the delivery of its Services, is entitled to take any actions deemed necessary and reasonable to ensure compliance with Market Rules and all other applicable laws and regulatory directives.

4.14. The client acknowledges that all funds available in demo accounts are entirely virtual and do not represent real money. These virtual funds are provided strictly for simulated trading activities and hold no actual monetary value. Consequently, the client agrees that such virtual funds cannot be withdrawn, transferred, or exchanged for real currency or any other form of asset. Any gains or losses realized in demo accounts are hypothetical and have no impact on the client's actual financial position.

Additionally, the client recognizes that the prices and market conditions displayed in demo accounts may differ from those in live accounts. These variations may be due to factors such as differences in liquidity, execution speed, or other market influences. Therefore, the trading results in demo accounts may not accurately represent the outcomes that could be achieved in a live trading environment.

5. DEALINGS BETWEEN THE COMPANY AND THE CUSTOMER

5.1. Unless expressly agreed otherwise, all orders or instructions must be submitted electronically to the Company via PXBT's Trading Platform, unless we notify you of an alternative method. The Company is authorized to act upon your instructions even in the absence of written confirmation. An instruction or order provided by you to the Company will not take effect until it is actually received by us. For the purposes of this Agreement, and unless the context dictates otherwise, the terms "instructions" and "orders" shall have the same meaning.

5.2. Where the Customer places an order via PXBT's Trading Platform, or through another method specified by the Company in writing from time to time:

- i. The Customer is making an offer to enter into a transaction and/or contract with the Company at the quoted price, upon completion of all mandatory fields and the activation of the relevant submission button; and
- ii. Both the Customer and the Company shall be bound by a transaction and/or contract only when the details of such transaction and/or contract are confirmed as executed on PXBT's Trading Platform. Should the Customer not see the details of the executed transaction and/or contract on PXBT's Trading Platform, the Customer must promptly contact the Company to verify the status of the transaction and/or contract.

5.3. The Customer may place an electronic order on PXBT's Trading Platform at any time. However, the Company will execute a transaction and/or contract only during times that align with both our trading hours and the market hours for the relevant market.

5.4. The Company reserves the absolute discretion and right to refuse any instruction given by the Customer or on the Customer's behalf, in whole or in part, and may refuse to act on it without providing any reason or incurring any liability for any resulting loss. Additionally, if any instruction is not received in a manner that can be processed, including any failure of PXBT's Trading Platform to accept or process the instruction, it shall be considered as not having been received by the Company.

5.5. The Company also reserves the right to refuse to enter into any transaction and/or contract under various circumstances, including but not limited to:

- i. Trades placed outside of market hours;
- ii. Trades that individually or collectively exceed the maximum quantity or fall below the minimum quantity set for the market;
- iii. Insufficient margin to fund the proposed transaction and/or contract;
- iv. Transactions or contracts priced based on a manifest error;
- v. Transactions and/or contracts that would breach this Agreement or any applicable legal or regulatory requirements.

5.6. The Company shall not undertake the risk for any loss, expense, cost, or liability suffered or incurred by the Customer due to system failures, transmission failures, delays, or similar technical errors, unless the Company has exercised gross negligence.

5.7. The Company may offer real-time tradable prices to the Customer. Due to delayed transmission between the Customer and the Company, the price offered by the Company may change before an order from the Customer is received. If automatic order execution is offered, the Company is entitled to adjust the execution price to the market value at the time the order from the Customer is received.

5.8. Prices offered by the Company regarding the sale, purchase, or exercise of Contracts of Order (COs) reflect the price of the relevant exchange-traded product. Due to delays from the Customer's execution of an order or instruction regarding a CO to the execution of the relevant exchange-traded product on the exchange, the price listed on the Trading Platform may change to reflect the price of the relevant exchange-traded product at the time of its execution or exercise.

5.9. The Trading Platform may be available in several versions, differentiated by aspects such as the level of security applied, available products, and services. The Company shall not be liable for any loss, expense, cost, or liability suffered or incurred by the Customer due to using a version different from the Company's standard version with all available updates installed.

5.10. The Customer is responsible for all orders and the accuracy of all information sent via the internet using the Customer's name, password, or any other personal identification methods implemented to identify the Customer.

5.11. The Customer is obliged to keep passwords secret and ensure that third parties do not gain access to the Customer's trading facilities. If the Trading Platform is used for commercial purposes, the Customer is liable for contracts executed using the Customer's password, even if such use is unauthorized.

5.12. Regardless of immediate confirmation from the Trading Platform that a contract is executed when the Customer transmits instructions, it is the Settlement/Trade Confirmation forwarded by the Company or made available on the Trading Platform that constitutes the Company's confirmation of execution. An instruction sent via the Trading Platform is deemed received and constitutes a valid instruction and/or binding contract only when recorded as executed by the Company and confirmed to the Customer through the Settlement/Trade Confirmation and/or Account Statement.

5.13. The Customer shall promptly provide any instructions the Company may require. If the Customer does not give such instructions promptly, the Company may, at its reasonable discretion, take steps at the Customer's cost as necessary or desirable for its own protection or the protection of the Customer. This applies similarly when the Company is unable to contact the Customer.

5.14. If the Customer does not provide notice of intention to exercise an option, CO, or another contract requiring instruction at the stipulated time, the Company may treat it as abandoned. The Customer must provide notice within a reasonable time (and within applicable cut-off times) to exercise an option, CO, or contract. COs that close one tick or more in the money on the last trading day will be automatically exercised. The Customer cannot instruct the Company not to exercise in-the-money COs at expiry and cannot instruct the Company to exercise out-of-the-money COs.

5.15. The Company uses a random assignment method for COs when notified by its counterparties that one or more short option positions have been assigned. PXBT's allocation method randomly selects short COs among all the Company's Customers' positions, including those opened immediately prior to the assignment. All short COs are liable for assignment at any time. If a short CO is assigned, the Customer must deliver the relevant amount of cash or assets for settlement within the applicable time frame.

5.16. The Company may require confirmation in a form it reasonably requests for instructions to close an account or remit money due to the Customer or if it appears necessary.

5.17. The Company reserves the right to cancel, close out, repair, reinstate, or take other necessary actions regarding open or closed trades or instructions from the Customer if such trades or instructions violate, or are suspected to violate, this Agreement, securities market legislation, market practices, money laundering laws, or insider trading regulations. This includes the use of manipulative software or trading styles deemed by the Company, its counterparties, or liquidity providers to breach applicable laws. Such actions are taken to protect the interests of the Company and its Customers.

5.18. The Company shall act on instructions as soon as practicable and in accordance with its Best Execution Policy (BEP). If the Company deems it impracticable to act on instructions within a reasonable time, it may defer action until practicable or notify the Customer of refusal to act on such instructions.

5.19. It is possible that errors may occur in the prices of transactions quoted by the Company. In such circumstances, without prejudice to any rights it may have, the Company shall not be bound by any Contract which purports to have been made (whether or not confirmed by the Company) at a price which:

- i. The Company can substantiate to the Customer was manifestly incorrect at the time of the transaction; or
- ii. Was, or ought to have reasonably been known by the Customer to be incorrect at the time of the transaction.

In such cases, the Company reserves the right to either: a) Cancel the trade altogether; or b) Correct the erroneous price at which the trade was executed to either the price at which the Company hedged the trade or alternatively to the historically correct market price.

5.20. Trading strategies aimed at exploiting errors in prices and/or concluding trades at off-market prices (commonly known as "sniping") are not accepted by the Company. Provided that the Company can document that there were errors in prices, commissions, or in the Trading Platform at the time of the trade's conclusion, and that the Customer, based on their trading strategy or other behavior, deliberately and/or systematically exploited or attempted to exploit such an error, the Company is entitled to take one or more of the following countermeasures:

- i. Adjust the price spreads available to the Customer;
- ii. Restrict the Customer's access to streaming, instantly tradable quotes, including providing manual quotations only;
- iii. Retrieve from the Customer's account any historical trading profits that the Company can document were gained through such abuse of liquidity at any time during the customer relationship; and/or
- iv. Terminate the customer relationship immediately by giving written notice.

5.21. The Company does not accept and prohibits joint accounts. Without any prejudice to the aforesaid, if the Customer consists of more than one person (e.g., joint account holders):

- i. The liabilities of each such person shall be direct, joint, and several;

- ii. The Company may act upon instructions received from any one person who is, or appears to the Company to be, such a person, whether or not such person is an Authorized Person;
- iii. Any notice or other communication provided by the Company to one such person shall be deemed to have been provided to all such persons; and
- iv. The rights of the Company under this Agreement shall apply to all such persons.

5.22. The Customer agrees that the Company may record all telephone conversations, internet conversations (chat), and any communication including meetings between the Customer and the Company. The Company may use such recordings, or transcripts from such recordings, as evidence towards any party (including, but not limited to, any regulatory authority and/or court of law) to whom the Company, at its reasonable discretion, deems it desirable or necessary to disclose such information in any dispute or anticipated dispute between the Company and the Customer. In the case of accidental mechanical breakdowns of the Company's recording systems, technical reasons may prevent the Company from recording a conversation. Recordings or transcripts made by the Company will be deleted in accordance with the Company's normal practice under the applicable regulatory framework. Consequently, the Customer should not rely on such recordings being available.

5.23. When the Customer instructs the Company to enter into a position opposite to one or more of the Customer's open positions, the Company will close out the opposite position in accordance with the FIFO (First In, First Out) principles unless the position has related orders or otherwise agreed. The Customer acknowledges that the Company has the right, but not the obligation, to close directly opposite positions. This applies not only when the positions are held in the same account but also when they are held in separate accounts.

5.24. The Customer may operate and maintain only one (1) trading account with the Company. Without any prejudice to the aforesaid and/or the provisions statement in "Termination of Account" section, if the Customer operates several accounts (or sub-accounts) and opposite positions are opened on different accounts (or sub-accounts), the Customer is specifically made aware that unless closed manually, all such positions may be rolled over on a continuous basis, incurring a cost for such roll-over.

5.25. The Customer agrees and understands that they bear sole responsibility for promptly notifying PXBT of any instances where their account has been "hacked" or accessed without their permission (collectively referred to as "unauthorized access"). PXBT shall not be held liable for any unauthorized access to the Customer's trading account or for failing to identify such unauthorized access.

Should PXBT identify, or be notified by the Customer, that unauthorized access has occurred, PXBT reserves the right to immediately block the Customer's trading account without prior notification. The Customer will not be entitled to retain any profits earned during the period of unauthorized access. Additionally, PXBT reserves the right to decline or delay any withdrawal request in such circumstances.

6. USE OF THE TRADING PLATFORM

6.1. The Customer must enter his/her user ID and password when logging on to the Trading Platform. Upon becoming aware of unauthorized use of the Trading Platform, or if the Customer suspects that the password has been misappropriated by a third party, the Customer must notify the Company without undue delay to block his/her Trading Platform.

6.2. The Customer can block his/ her Trading Account at any time by contacting the Company. Blocking the Trading Platform prevents other persons from accessing it. Open orders and positions placed on the platform before the blocking will not be affected unless the Customer specifically requests otherwise. The Customer is solely responsible for deciding about his/her positions.

6.3. The right to use the Trading Platform is only provided to the Customer specifically, and the Customer shall not allow other persons to use his/her user ID and/or password.

6.4. From the Customer Trading Account, s/he may access his/ her trading activities and account balances.

6.5. If the Customer places an order which s/he subsequently regrets, s/he may request that the order be canceled up until the time of execution. The Customer is aware that the Company is under no obligation to cancel the order. An order shall not be considered canceled until the Customer has received written confirmation from the Company.

6.6. The Company shall not be liable for losses in cases of abnormal and unforeseeable circumstances beyond the Company's control, the consequences of which would have been unavoidable despite all efforts to the contrary.

Furthermore, the Customer shall be obliged to make backup copies of data which, if lost, might result in losses for the Customer.

7.4. Payments into the Customer's account are deposited by the Company on the condition of receiving the amount in question. This applies regardless of whether it has been explicitly stated in receipts or other notices or requests for payment.

7.5. If the Customer fails to provide any margin, deposit, or other sum due under this Agreement in respect of any transaction, the Company may close any open position without prior notice to the Customer to pay any amounts due to the Company.

PXBT will not be held liable for any losses due to this.

8.5. Refund Policy: Even though PXBT's policy is to refund back to the source, it reserves the right to accept or decline any funding and/or withdrawal request based on the payment method chosen and may suggest an alternative. If a withdrawal request is made using a different method than the one used for deposit, it may be rejected (without notice or without requiring the client's consent), and an alternative method previously used may be required.

Any requests not in line with PXBT's legal obligations may not be processed. PXBT reserves the right to reverse the transaction, net of any fees, costs, or charges and may not always be able to provide an explanation for why a request cannot be processed or why a request has been rejected. Refunds will be sent to the same source from where the funds were received unless PXBT believes a deviation is necessary.

8.6. Limitation of Liability: PXBT will not be liable for any losses incurred if the client used the wrong bank details or provided incorrect information (e.g. withdrawal requests to a closed account, a restricted account, wrong IBAN, bank name, name, or SWIFT code or deposits to the wrong IBAN or account name) or for any fees charged by the client's bank or intermediary other banks.

In addition, in case the client's bank rejects the transfer for any reason, PXBT will not be liable for any fees incurred. PXBT retains the absolute right to void and/or cancel any financial and/or trading transactions that are deemed to be fraudulent or suspicious. In such instances, PXBT may, at its sole discretion, take appropriate measures to return the funds to their original source, where possible. This right is exercised when PXBT becomes aware of, suspects, or identifies any fraudulent activities connected to the transactions.

The Company's Clients may withdraw any portion of funds corresponding to the free margin in their Accounts, subject to applicable operational restrictions and any other limitations set by PXBT. However, PXBT reserves the right to suspend or reject a withdrawal request if there are reasonable grounds to believe that the request is made with the intent to abuse any of its offerings or is contrary to its policies. PXBT also reserves the right to reject a withdrawal request if it suspects the request is intended to exploit PXBT's Negative Balance Protection

In such cases, PXBT reserves the absolute right to cancel the withdrawal request and make necessary adjustments to the Client's account(s), including the deduction of any and all profits derived from such errors or abusive activities.

The Client acknowledges and agrees that if the Company mistakenly credits the Client's account with an amount exceeding what is rightfully due, the Client is immediately obligated to inform the Company of such overpayment and, upon request, repay the full excess amount. The Client expressly agrees that retaining any overpaid funds constitutes a material breach of this Agreement, including the duty to act in good faith as outlined herein.

Should the Client fail to promptly return the excess funds upon the Company's request, the Company reserves the right to pursue all legal and equitable remedies available under this Agreement and applicable law. This includes, but is not limited to, initiating legal action to recover the overpaid funds, imposing restrictions on the Client's account, suspending services, and terminating the Client's account. The Client also acknowledges that these actions may result in additional liabilities, including legal fees, damages, and interest, for which the Client will be fully responsible.

9. MARGIN TRADES

9.1. On the date of the opening of a Margin Trade between the Company and the Customer, the Company may require the Customer to have margin in the Account at least equivalent to the Company's initial margin requirement.

9.2. The Company's margin requirement shall apply throughout the term of the Margin Trade. It is the Customer's responsibility to continuously ensure that sufficient margin is available in the Account at all times. The Company may notify the Customer if the margin requirements are not met, if practicably possible. If, at any time during the term of a Margin Trade, the margin available in the Account is insufficient to cover the Company's margin requirement, the Customer is obliged to reduce the amount of open Margin Trades or transfer adequate funds to the Company. Even if the Customer takes steps to reduce the size of open Margin Trades or to transfer sufficient funds to the Company, the Company may, at its sole discretion, close one, several, or all of the Customer's Margin Trades or part of a Margin Trade and/or liquidate or sell securities or other property in the Customer's account without assuming any responsibility towards the Customer for such action.

9.3. If the Company, due to insufficient margin as per above, decides to close one, several, or all of the Customer's Margin Trades, the Customer should expect that all of the Customer's open Margin Trades will be closed unless otherwise agreed and confirmed by the Company.

9.4. The Company's general margin requirements for different types of Margin Trades are displayed on the Company's website. However, the Company reserves the right to determine specific margin requirements for individual Margin Trades. The specific margin trade requirements shall be determined during sudden market fluctuations, where the Company changes the margins to protect the client from high risks.

9.5. The Customer is specifically made aware that margin requirements are subject to change without notice. When a Margin Trade has been opened, the Company is not allowed to close the Margin Trade at its discretion but only at the Customer's instruction or according to the Company's rights under this Agreement. However, the Company will increase the margin requirements if it considers that its risk on a Margin Trade has increased compared to the risk on the date of the opening.

9.6. If the Customer's combined exposure in one or more margin trades reaches a level that, in the event of adverse market developments, may lead to a significant deficit not covered by the Customer's deposits and/or margin with the Company, the Company may, at its reasonable discretion:

- i. Increase margin requirements; and/or
- ii. Reduce the Customer's exposure by closing one or more or all of the Customer's open positions.

Such conditions include, but are not limited to, the suspension or closure of any market, the abandonment or failure of any event to which the Company relates its quote, the occurrence of an excessive movement in the level of any margin trade and/or underlying market, or the Company's reasonable anticipation of such a movement. In such cases, the Company may:

- i. Increase margin requirements;
- ii. Reduce the Customer's exposure;
- iii. Close any or all of the Customer's open margin trades; and/or 2
- iv. Suspend trading.

The Customer is obliged to provide the Company with an e-mail address for this purpose. An e-mail message is considered received by the Customer when sent by the Company. The Company is not responsible for any delay, alteration, redirection, or any other modification the message may undergo after transmission. A message on the Customer's account on the Trading Platform is considered received by the Customer when the Company has placed the message on the Trading Platform. It is the responsibility of the Customer to ensure that the Customer's software and hardware setup does not prevent the receipt of e-mails or access to the Trading Platform.

10.4. The Customer is obliged to verify the contents of each document, including those sent in electronic form from the Company. Such documents shall, in the absence of manifest error, be deemed conclusive unless the Customer notifies the Company in writing to the contrary immediately after receiving such document. If the Customer believes they have entered into a transaction or Contract that should have produced a Settlement/Trade Confirmation or another posting on the Customer's account, but has not received such confirmation, the Customer must inform the Company immediately when they should have received such confirmation.

11. COMMISSIONS, CHARGES, AND OTHER COSTS

11.1. The Customer shall pay the Company all applicable fees and charges (including, but not limited to, spreads, charges, interest, and other fees) ("Commissions and Charges") at the rates notified by the Company from time to time or published on PXBT's Trading Platform. By accepting this Agreement, the Customer acknowledges that they have read, understood, and accepted the information provided in the Spreads / Conditions Schedule posted on PXBT's Trading Platform or its official website, where all such Commissions and Charges are detailed.

11.2. The Company reserves the right to amend, alter, modify, delete, or add to any of these Commissions and Charges at any time and at its sole discretion. When these Commissions and Charges are changed, the Company will post such Changes on PXBT's Trading Platform and/or notify the Customer by other means. Each such notification shall be deemed sufficient notice. It is the Customer's responsibility to regularly check the information posted on PXBT's Trading Platform for any such changes. Therefore, the Customer should periodically review the fees schedule on PXBT's website to stay informed of any changes.

11.3. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, all Changes shall become effective at the date of posting them on PXBT's Trading Platform or upon the Customer's first access and/or use of PXBT's Trading Platform after such amendments are made, whichever is sooner. The Customer's continued use of PXBT's Trading Platform following the publication of any changes shall be considered as acceptance of those changes and shall be governed by the revised Agreement. If the Customer does not wish to be bound by the changes, they must cease using PXBT's Trading Platform and inform the Company in writing immediately as per the conditions stated in Section 24 of this Agreement "Termination of Agreement".

11.4. If the changes are to the Customer's advantage, or the changes are due to external circumstances beyond the Company's reasonable control, the Company is entitled to adjust the Commissions and Charges with immediate effect, without prior notice. Such circumstances may include, but are not limited to:

- i. Changes in the relationship with the Company's counterparties that affect the Company's cost structures;
- ii. Changes in commissions and charges from exchanges, clearing houses, information providers, or other third-party providers that are passed on by the Company to the Customer.

11.6. Furthermore, the Company shall be entitled to demand that the following expenses be paid separately by the Customer:

- ii. Any expenses of the Company caused by non-performance by the Customer, including a fee determined by the Company for forwarding reminders, legal assistance, etc.;
- iii. Any expenses of the Company in connection with replies to inquiries by public authorities, including a fee determined by the Company for forwarding transcripts and enclosures and for preparing copies;
- iv. Administration fees in connection with security deposits and any expenses of the Company related to a pledge, if provided, including any insurance premium payments; and
- v. Any expenses of the Company in connection with auditor's comments/reports if requested by the Customer.

11.7. The fees will be charged either as a fixed amount corresponding to payments made, or as a percentage or hourly rate corresponding to the service performed. The methods of calculation can be combined. The Company reserves the right to introduce new fees.

11.8. The Company may share commissions and charges with its associates, Introducing Brokers (IBs), or other third parties or receive remuneration from them concerning Contracts entered into by the Company. Details of any such remuneration or sharing arrangement will not be included in the relevant Settlement/Trade Confirmations. The Company (or any associate) may benefit from commissions, mark-ups, mark-downs, or any other remuneration where it acts for the Counterparty to a Contract.

11.9. The Company may, at its absolute discretion, upon reasonable request and to the extent possible, disclose to the Customer the amount of commission, mark-up, mark-down, or any other remuneration paid by the Company to any IB or other third party.

- i. Be deducted from any funds held by the Company for the Customer; or
- ii. Be paid by the Customer in accordance with the provisions of the relevant difference account, Settlement/Trade Confirmation, or other advice.

11.11. Regarding any transactions to be effected OTC, the Company shall be entitled to quote prices at which it is prepared to trade with the Customer. Except where the Company exercises any rights it may have under this Agreement to close a Contract, it is the Customer's responsibility to decide whether or not to enter into a Contract at such prices.

11.12. Furthermore, the Customer acknowledges, recognizes, and accepts that the procedures described in the present section may result in additional indirect costs for the Customer.

12. INTEREST AND CURRENCY CONVERSIONS

12.1. Subject to the section below and unless otherwise agreed in writing, the Company shall not be liable to:

- i. Pay interest to the Customer on any credit balance in any Account or on any other sum held by the Company; or

- ii. Account to the Customer for any interest received by the Company on such sums or in connection with any Contract.

12.2. The Customer is entitled to interest based on the Customer's positive NFE in accordance with the terms specified in the Company's Commissions, Charges & Other Costs section.

12.3. The Customer is obliged to pay interest based on the Customer's negative NFE in accordance with the terms specified in the Company's Commissions, Charges & Other Costs section.

12.4. The Company may adjust such interest rates and/or thresholds for interest calculation without notice when changes are to the Customer's advantage, or when the changes are due to external circumstances beyond the Company's control. Such circumstances include:

- i. Changes in domestic or international monetary or credit policies that affect the general interest level in a way that is significant to the Company;
- ii. Other changes in the general interest level, including in the money and bond markets, that are significant to the Company; and
- iii. Changes in the relationship with the Company's counterparties, which affect the Company's cost structures.

12.5. The Customer is deemed to have accepted such changes if they do not notify the Company that they do not accept them before the proposed date of their entry into force.

12.6. The Company is entitled, but not obliged, to convert:

- i. Any realized profits, losses, option premiums, commissions, interest charges, and brokerage fees which arise in a currency other than the Customer's base currency (i.e., the currency in which the Customer's Account is denominated) to the Customer's base currency;
- ii. Any cash currency deposit to another cash currency deposit for the purpose of purchasing an asset denominated in a currency other than the Customer's base currency; and
- iii. Any monies held by the Company for the Customer into such other currency as the Company considers necessary or desirable to cover the Customer's obligations and liabilities in that currency.

12.7. Whenever the Company conducts currency conversions, the Company will do so at a reasonable rate of exchange selected by the Company. The Company shall be entitled to add a mark-up to the exchange rates.

13. PLEDGE AGREEMENT

13.1. Any and all Securities transferred to the Company by the Customer, or held by the Company or by the Company's counterparties on behalf of the Customer, is hereby pledged as collateral for any and all liabilities, present or future, that the Customer may owe to the Company. This Security explicitly includes, but is not limited to, credit balances on Accounts, securities registered in the Customer's name in the Company's records, and the value of the Customer's open positions with the Company.

13.2. In the event that the Customer fails to discharge any obligation under this Agreement, the Company shall have the unequivocal right to liquidate any pledged Security forthwith, without the necessity of prior notice to the Customer or judicial intervention. The Company shall exercise its discretion to determine the method of sale and shall sell the Security at a price it deems, in its reasonable judgment, to be the best obtainable under the circumstances.

14. NETTING AGREEMENT

14.1. If on any date identical amounts are payable under this Agreement by each party to the other in the same currency, then each party's obligations to make payment of such amounts shall be automatically satisfied by netting. If the amounts are not in the same currency, they shall be converted by the Company in accordance with the principles outlined in Section 11 "Interests and Currency Conversions".

14.2. If the aggregate amount payable by one party exceeds the aggregate amount payable by the other party, the party owing the larger aggregate amount shall pay the excess to the other party, thereby satisfying and discharging each party's payment obligations.

14.3. If, at any time during the business relationship, the Customer has a negative cash balance in any Account, the Company is entitled, but not obligated, to net the balances between the Customer's Accounts. The Customer shall bear all charges and associated costs with such netting as specified in the Commissions, Charges & Other Costs section.

14.4. Upon termination of the Customer relationship in accordance with Section 24, all claims that the parties have against each other shall be finally discharged by means of netting (closed). The value of open Contracts shall be determined according to the principles set forth below, and the final amount to be paid by one party shall be the difference between the payment obligations of the parties.

14.5. The rates used to close the Contracts shall be market rates applicable on the day the Company decides to close the Contracts. The Company, at its reasonable discretion, may determine these rates by obtaining an offer from a Market Maker in the relevant asset or by applying rates from electronic financial information systems.

14.6. When determining the value of the Contracts to be netted, the Company shall apply its usual spreads and include all costs and other charges.

14.7. This Netting Agreement shall be binding on the estates and creditors of the parties to the Customer relationship.

15. MARKET MAKING

15.1 When the Company executes orders as an Agent for the Customer on a recognized stock or futures exchange, or any other execution venue/ liquidity provider the Company will not be a party to such trades. These orders will be executed in the trading system of the relevant exchange or execution venue/ liquidity provider at the best price and under the most favorable conditions available at the time of the order, or according to the Customer's specific instructions, such as in cases where the Customer has chosen to limit the order. The Company will not include any additional spread in the execution price but will be remunerated according to the Commissions, Charges & Other Costs.

15.2 The Customer is hereby informed that in certain markets, including the foreign exchange markets, OTC foreign exchange options, and CFD Contracts, the Company may act as a Market Maker.

15.3 When acting as a Market Maker, the Company will, under normal market circumstances, quote bid and ask prices to the Customer. To quote prices with the speed required for speculative trading, the Company may rely on available price or availability information that may later prove to be faulty due to specific market circumstances, such as a lack of liquidity, suspension of an asset, or errors in feeds from information providers or quotes from counterparties. If this occurs, and if the Company has acted in good faith in providing the price to the Customer, the Company may cancel the trade within a reasonable time and provide the Customer with a full explanation for the cancellation.

15.4 Following the execution of any position with a Customer, the Company may, at its reasonable discretion, subsequently offset each such customer position with another customer position or a position with one of the Company's counterparties, or retain a proprietary position in the market with the intention of obtaining trading profits from such positions. These decisions and actions may result in the Company offsetting customer positions at prices different (sometimes significantly different) from the prices quoted to customers, leading to trading profits or losses for the Company. Consequently, the Customer may incur an implied cost (i.e., the difference between the price at which the Customer traded with the Company and the price at which the Company subsequently traded with counterparties and/or other customers) due to any profits realized by the Company as a result of the Market Making function. However, the Market Making function may also involve significant costs to the Company if the market moves against it compared to the price at which it traded with the Customer.

15.5 The Customer acknowledges that in markets where the Company acts as a Market Maker, the Company may hold positions contrary to the Customer's positions, leading to potential conflicts of interest between the Company and the Customer.

15.6 In markets where the Company acts as a Market Maker, the Customer accepts that the Company has no obligation to quote prices to customers at all times in any given market, nor to quote prices with a specific maximum spread.

15.7 In markets where the Company acts as a Market Maker, the Company may or may not charge commissions. Regardless of whether commissions are charged, the Customer accepts that the Company will seek to make additional profits from its performance as a Market Maker, and the size of such profits may be considerable when compared with the Customer's margin deposit.

15.8 The Customer acknowledges that the price quoted to him/her includes a spread when compared with the price at which the Company may have covered or expected to be able to cover the Contract in a trade with another customer or a counterparty. This spread constitutes remuneration to the Company and may not be calculable for all Contracts and will not be specified in the Settlement/Trade Confirmation or otherwise disclosed to the Customer.

15.9 The Customer acknowledges that the Company quotes variable spreads on options. Variable option spreads are influenced by actual market conditions, which are beyond the Company's control. The Company does not guarantee any maximum or minimum quotable option spreads.

15.10 Any commission costs, interest charges, costs included in the spreads quoted by the Company as a Market Maker in certain markets, and other fees and charges will influence the Customer's trading results and have a negative effect on their trading performance compared to a situation where such costs did not apply. While dealing spreads and commissions are generally moderate relative to the value of the assets traded, such costs may be substantial when compared with the Customer's margin deposit. As a result, the Customer's margin deposit may be depleted by trading losses and the directly visible dealing costs, such as commissions, interest charges, and brokerage fees, as well as the not directly visible costs caused by the Company's performance as a Market Maker.

15.11 Active traders undertaking numerous transactions may find that the total impact of visible and not directly visible costs is significant. Consequently, they may need to achieve substantial profits to cover the costs associated with trading activities with the Company. For very active Customers, these costs may, over time, exceed the value of the margin deposited. Typically, when trading margined derivatives, the lower the percentage of the applicable margin rate, the higher the proportion of the costs associated with executing a transaction.

15.12 The Customer is specifically made aware that in the area of market making in foreign exchange, OTC foreign exchange options, CFD Contracts, and other OTC products, significant implied costs can arise as a result of the profits made by the Company in its capacity as a Market Maker. The Company's performance as a Market Maker may negatively affect the Customer's Account with the Company, and these implied costs are neither directly visible nor directly quantifiable for the Customer at any time.

15.13 The Company is under no obligation to disclose any details of its performance or income produced as a Market Maker or otherwise related to other commissions, charges, and fees.

15.14 The Customer is specifically made aware that CFD Contracts may be OTC products quoted by the Company while operating as a Market Maker and not traded on a recognized stock exchange. As a result, the implied, not directly visible costs related to the Company's performance as a Market Maker may also apply to any CFD Contract.

16. AGGREGATION AND SPLIT

16.1. The Company is entitled, in its absolute discretion, to combine and/or aggregate the Customer's orders with the Company's own orders and/or with orders of any of the Company's associates and/or persons connected with the Company, including employees and other clients. Furthermore, the Company may split the Customer's orders when executing them. Orders will only be aggregated or split if the Company reasonably believes it to be in the best interest of the Customer.

16.2. On some occasions, however, aggregation and splitting of the Customer's order may result in the Customer obtaining a less favorable price in relation to a particular order than if the Customer's orders had been executed separately or independently.

17. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

17.1 The Customer agrees and understands that when the Company, its Associates, or related entities arrange Transactions and/or Contracts with the Customer, the Company might have significant interests, relationships, or arrangements related to the Transaction and/or Contract. If a conflict of interest arises, the Company will resolve it in a manner it deems to be in the Customer's best interests, following its Conflicts of Interest Policy that is found on the Company's official website.

17.2 The Customer acknowledges and agrees that:

- i. The Company may delegate the execution of the Customer's Orders to its Associates or other third parties as it sees fit;
- ii. The Company may simultaneously execute Orders from different clients that are opposite to one another;
- iii. The Company may engage in business relationships, including trading relationships with other issuers of Financial Instruments, and may hold financial interests in these Financial Instruments;
- iv. The Company operates as a Market Maker, which may result in inherent Conflicts of Interest; and
- v. The Company may share its revenues from the Customer's activities with its Associates, partners, and other similar parties engaged in marketing activities on its behalf. The Customer further agrees that the Company may also compensate other clients whom the Customer has chosen to follow or copy.

17.3 Detailed information about the Company's Conflicts of Interest Policy is available on its official website.

17.4 By accepting these Terms and Conditions, the Customer acknowledges and agrees that the Company may conduct such business activities without needing to address any specific Conflict of Interest beforehand.

18. PXBT TRADING LTD'S COUNTERPARTIES

18.1. To execute the Customer's instructions, the Company may engage a Counterparty at its discretion. This will occur particularly when the transaction is subject to the rules of an exchange or market where the Company is not a member.

18.2. The Company shall not be held liable for any errors committed by such Counterparties, provided that the Company exercised due diligence and sufficient care in selecting the Counterparty.

19. INTRODUCING BROKERS & AFFILIATES

19.1 The Customer may have been referred to the Company by an Introducing Broker (IB) or Affiliates. If so, the Company shall not be responsible for any agreement made between the Customer and the Customer's IB or Affiliate. The Customer acknowledges that any such IB or Affiliate will either be acting as an independent intermediary or an Agent for the Customer, and that no such IB or Affiliate shall be authorized to make any representations concerning the Company or the Company's services.

19.2 The Customer is specifically made aware that the Customer's agreement with its IB or Affiliates may result in additional costs, as the Company may pay fees or commissions to such IB or Affiliates. Furthermore, the Customer acknowledges that the agreement with the IB or Affiliate may also result in additional costs for the Customer because the IB or Affiliate can deduct commissions and fees, as well as price or interest/financing rate adjustments, for any trade conducted on or allocated to the Customer's account by either the IB/ Affiliate or the Customer.

19.3 If the IB or Affiliate undertakes any deductions from the Customer's Trading Account according to any agreement between the Customer and the IB/ Affiliate, the Company bears no responsibility for the existence or validity of such an agreement. The Company shall have no responsibility or liability to the Customer for following the instructions given by the IB/ Affiliate. The Company is under no obligation to supervise or otherwise review the payment instructions or any other acts, including but not limited to trading, conducted by the IB or Affiliate.

19.4 The Customer acknowledges and accepts that frequent transactions may result in a substantial sum of commissions, fees, and price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted, which may not necessarily be offset by the net profits, if any, achieved from the relevant trades. The responsibility for correctly assessing whether the size of the total commissions, fees, and price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted makes trading commercially viable is the combined responsibility of the Customer and the IB/Affiliate. The Company acts solely as the custodian and principal broker and is not responsible for the size of the commissions, fees, and price or interest rate adjustments paid by the Customer.

19.5 Any commissions, fees, and price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted may be shared between the IB or Affiliate, the Company, and third parties according to the IB's or Affiliate's written instructions and/or at the Company's discretion.

27.1. Severability: Should any provision of this Agreement become illegal, invalid, or unenforceable under the law of any jurisdiction, the legality, validity, and enforceability of the remaining provisions shall not be affected in that jurisdiction or any other jurisdiction.

27.2. Force Majeure: The Company shall not be liable for any failure, hindrance, or delay in performing its obligations under this Agreement arising directly or indirectly from circumstances beyond its reasonable control. Force majeure events include, but are not limited to, technical difficulties such as telecommunications failures or disruptions, non-availability of the Company's website due to maintenance downtime, war, revolt, civil unrest, natural catastrophes, statutory provisions, measures taken by authorities, strikes, lockouts, boycotts, or blockades, even if the Company is a party to the conflict and such events only affect part of the Company's functions.

27.5. Assignment: The Customer may not assign their rights or delegate any of their obligations under this Agreement or any Contract to others. The Company may assign its rights or delegate its obligations to any regulated financial institution.

27.6. Additional Business Agreements: At the Company's absolute discretion, for various investments, securities, and groups of Customers, the Company may provide additional business agreements. The Customer acknowledges, understands, and accepts that:

27.6.1. Such business agreements constitute an addition to this Agreement; and 27.6.2. The Customer should not undertake any transaction unless the business terms applicable to such investment securities or group of Customers have been understood and accepted. Transactions undertaken by the Customer in disregard of the above shall be deemed as had this sub-clause been complied with.

27.7. Cumulative Rights and Remedies: The rights and remedies in this Agreement are cumulative and not exclusive of any rights or remedies provided by law.

27.8. No Waiver: No delay or omission by the Company in exercising any right, power, or remedy provided by law or under this Agreement, nor any partial or defective exercise thereof, shall:

27.8.1. Impair or prevent any further or other exercise of such right, power, or remedy; or

27.8.2. Operate as a waiver of such right, power, or remedy.

27.8.3. No waiver of pleading a default of a clause in this Agreement shall (unless expressly agreed in writing by the waiving party) be construed as a waiver of a future breach of the same clause or as authorizing a continuation of the particular breach.

27.9. Governing Law and Jurisdiction: This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Seychelles and of Cyprus, depending on the jurisdiction of the client and in accordance with sections 1(1)(4) and 1(1)(5). Any disputes arising out of or in connection with this Agreement shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the mentioned country.

27.10. Language and Communication: The official, controlling and binding language will be the English language. The Customer shall communicate with the Company in English or any other language offered by the Company from time to time. The Company may communicate with the Customer in English or any other language agreed upon by the parties. The original English version of this Agreement and other legal documents shall be the only legally binding version. In the event of any discrepancies between the English version and any translations, the original English version shall prevail.

27.11. Authority to Bind: By accepting this Agreement on behalf of a corporation or other legal entity, the person signing represents and warrants that they are authorized to act on behalf of such corporation or legal entity and to bind the same to this Agreement and all obligations arising hereunder. If it later becomes apparent that the signatory was not duly authorized, the Company has the right to seek restitution from the signatory. Additionally, the signatory shall indemnify the Company against all liabilities, losses, damages, costs, and expenses in relation to any claims or actions brought against the Company due to the signatory holding out as being authorized to act and bind such corporation or legal entity.

27.12. In the event of any conflict between this Agreement and applicable Market Rules, the Market Rules shall prevail.

27.13. For the purposes of this Agreement, references to an individual person shall also include corporations, unincorporated associations, partnerships, and individuals.

27.14. The headings and notes in this Agreement are provided for reference only and shall not influence the interpretation of the contents of this Agreement.

27.15. References in this Agreement to any law, statute, regulation, or enactment shall include references to any statutory modification or re-enactment thereof, or to any regulation or order promulgated under such law, statute, enactment, or any such modification or re-enactment.

28. RISKS DISCLOSURES

Please refer to the Company's Risk Disclosure Statement for information regarding the inherent risks of the Company's products and services.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND DERIVATIVES

28.1. Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing":

28.1.1. Transactions in foreign exchange and derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

28.1.2. The initial margin required may be small relative to the value of the foreign exchange or derivatives contract, making transactions highly "leveraged" or "geared".

28.1.3. A relatively small market movement can have a proportionately larger impact on the funds you have deposited or will need to deposit; this can work against you as well as for you.

28.1.4. You may sustain a total loss of initial margin funds and any additional funds deposited with the Company to maintain your position.

28.1.5. If the market moves against your position and/or margin requirements are increased, you may be required to deposit additional funds on short notice to maintain your position.

28.1.6. Failing to comply with a request for a deposit of additional funds may result in the closure of your position(s) by the Company on your behalf, and you will be liable for any resulting loss or deficit.

28.2. Risk-Reducing Orders or Strategies:

28.2.1. The placing of certain orders (e.g., "stop-loss" orders, where permitted under local law, or "stop-limit" orders), which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts, may not be adequate if market conditions make it impossible to execute such orders, e.g., due to illiquidity in the market.

28.2.2. Strategies using combinations of positions, such as "spread" and "straddle" positions, may be as risky as taking simple "long" or "short" positions.

OPTIONS

28.3. Variable Degree of Risk:

28.3.1. Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk.

28.3.2. Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarize themselves with the type of option (i.e., put or call) they contemplate trading and the associated risks.

28.3.3. You should calculate the extent to which the value of the options must increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium and all transaction costs.

28.3.4. The purchaser of options may offset or exercise the options or allow the option to expire.

28.3.5. The exercise of an option results either in a cash settlement or in the purchaser acquiring or delivering the underlying interest.

28.3.6. If the option is on a future, the purchaser will acquire a futures position with associated liabilities for margin.

28.3.7. If the purchased option is out-of-the-money when it expires, you will suffer a total loss of your investment, which will consist of the option premium plus transaction costs.

28.3.8. If you are contemplating purchasing out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that the chance of such options becoming profitable ordinarily is remote.

28.3.9. Selling ("writing" or "granting") an option generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options.

28.3.10. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of that amount.

28.3.11. The seller will be liable for additional margin to maintain the position if the market moves unfavorably.

28.3.12. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option, and the seller will be obligated to either settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying interest. 27.3.13. If the option is on a future, the seller will acquire a position in a future with associated liabilities for margin.

28.3.14. If the option is "covered" by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying asset, in a future or in another option, the risk may be reduced.

28.3.15. In case the option is not covered, the risk of loss can be unlimited.

28.3.16. Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, exposing the purchaser to liability for margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium.

28.3.17. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs.

28.3.18. When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

RISKS COMMON TO FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND DERIVATIVE TRANSACTIONS

28.4. Terms and Conditions of Contracts:

28.4.1. You should ask the firm with which you deal about the terms and conditions of the contracts entered into and information on associated obligations (e.g., the circumstances under which you may become obligated to make or take delivery of the underlying interest of a futures contract and, in respect of options, expiration dates and restrictions on the time for exercise).

28.4.2. Under certain circumstances, the specifications of outstanding contracts (including the exercise price of an option) may be modified by the exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.

28.5. Suspension or Restriction of Trading and Pricing Relationships:

28.5.1. Market conditions (e.g., illiquidity) and/or the operation of the rules of certain markets (e.g., the suspension of trading in any contract or contract month because of price limits or "circuit breakers") may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or close/offset positions.

28.5.2. If you have sold options, this may increase the risk of loss.

28.5.3. Normal pricing relationships between the underlying asset and a derivative do not always exist. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge "fair" value.

28.6. Deposited Cash and Property:

28.6.1. You should familiarize yourself with the protections accorded to the security you deposit by way of money or other assets in domestic and foreign transactions, particularly in the event of a firm's insolvency or bankruptcy.

28.6.2. The extent to which you may recover your money or other assets is governed by the legislation and local rules in the country where the counterparty acts.

28.7. Commission and Other Charges:

28.7.1. Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees, and other charges for which you will be liable.

28.7.2. These charges will affect your net profit or loss.

28.8. Transactions in Other Jurisdictions:

28.8.1. Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk.

28.8.2. Such markets may be subject to regulation, which may offer different or diminished investor protection.

28.8.3. Your local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions have been effected.

28.9. Currency Risks:

28.9.1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts in another currency than your account currency will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to the account currency.

28.10. Trading Facilities:

28.10.1. Most open-outcry and electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration, or clearing of trades.

28.10.2. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure.

28.10.3. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house, and/or member firms.

28.10.4. Such limits may vary; you should ask the firm with which you deal for details in this respect.

28.11. Electronic Trading:

28.11.1. Trading on an electronic trading system may differ not only from trading in an open-outcry market but also from trading on other electronic trading systems.

28.11.2. If you undertake transactions on an electronic trading system, you will be exposed to risks associated with the system, including the failure of hardware and software.

28.11.3. The result of any system failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your instructions, is not executed at all, and a lack of capability to keep you continuously informed about your positions and fulfillment of the margin requirements.

28.12. Off-Exchange Transactions:

28.12.1. In some jurisdictions, firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. The firm with which you deal may be acting as your counterpart to the transaction.

28.12.2. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price, or to assess the exposure to risk.

28.12.3. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime.

28.12.4. Before you undertake such transactions, you should familiarize yourself with applicable rules and attendant risks.
